Veteran Marks 105th Birthday by Packing For Gettysburg Trip

Oil City, Pa., June 25 (AP)—David Reed celebrated his 105th birthday anniversary today by packing his kit for Gettysburg and the 75th anniversary of the famous Civil war battle there next week. The veteran of the conflict will be accompanied on the trip by Charles Monks, of Clarion.

FRUIT FROM 1938 CROPS NEW ON MARKET TODAY

First apples and peaches of the 1938 crops were the chief new attractions at the Saturday morning session in the Farmers' market house while cherries in a half dozen varieties and raspberries dominated the fruit offerings. A few hucksters had strawberries that they described as the last of the year at 10 cents a box.

Transparent apples, a few boxes of which had appeared at earlier sessions of market, were on sale at many stalls at 10 cents a box and 15 cents a quarter peck. Old apples were scarce at 20 cents a half peck. Mayflower peaches sold most places for 10 cents a box, while larger Unedas were 15 cents.

Sweet and sour cherries were marked at from 10 to 20 cents a box with the price of two boxes for 25 cents as the most popular quotation. Black raspberries were in large supply at 15 cents a quart and two boxes for 25 cents. Red raspberries were less plentiful and brought the same prices on pint boxes that the black variety demanded by the quart. Gooseberries were 15 cents a quart. Currants were 10 cents.

String Bean Prices
The general price on string beans was 15 cents a quarter peck with green and yellow pod varieties bringing the same prices most places. Peas could be had in large supplies at 10 cents a quart, 15 cents a quarter peck and 25 cents a half peck. Sugar peas were 10 cents a quart box. Shelled peas were tagged 15 cents a pint or two boxes for 25 cents.

Asparagus sold steadily at 15 cents a bunch or two for 25 cents. Lettuce was five cents a box or head and cabbage prices ranged from five to 10 cents a head. Cauliflower brought from 10 to 20 cents a head. New potatoes were in better supply than last week and sold generally at 15 cents a quarter peck and 25 cents a half peck.

Egg prices continued their gradual upward climb that reached 25 cents a dozen this morning. Prices started at 22 cents and ranged from that up to the new high. Butter was 30 cents a pound.

Live young white Leghorn cockerels could be had at 18 cents a pound. Live young Rocks were 25 cents a pound. Dressed chicken prices were unchanged at 40 and 35 cents a pound, for young and old birds respectively.

The market house was crowded this morning with buyers. Fifty stalls were filled.

2ND COMMISSION OFFICE
On Monday the Pennsylvania State commission will set up an office at the headquarters camp for the anniversary. The office will be located at the southeast corner of North Washington street and West Lincoln avenue. The office in Hotel Gettysburg also will be maintained.

PROVOST MARSHAL TO GRANT PASSES
It was announced from the Pennsylvania State commission office this morning that Major Charles Middleton, camp provost marshal at the headquarters camp for the 75th anniversary, will be in charge of the distribution of all tickets, passes and automobile stickers for the reunion program.

The headquarters camp is located on the athletic field of the Woman's division of Gettysburg college.

The provost marshal will grant the requests under the supervision of the camp commander.

OFFICERS MAKE ANNIVERSARY TRAFFIC PLANS

Announcement was made today by Major E. J. Henry, chief of staff of the Gettysburg detail of the state motor police, of general and special traffic regulations to be enforced by more than 450 officers who will be in and near Gettysburg at various times during the anniversary program as circumstances demand.

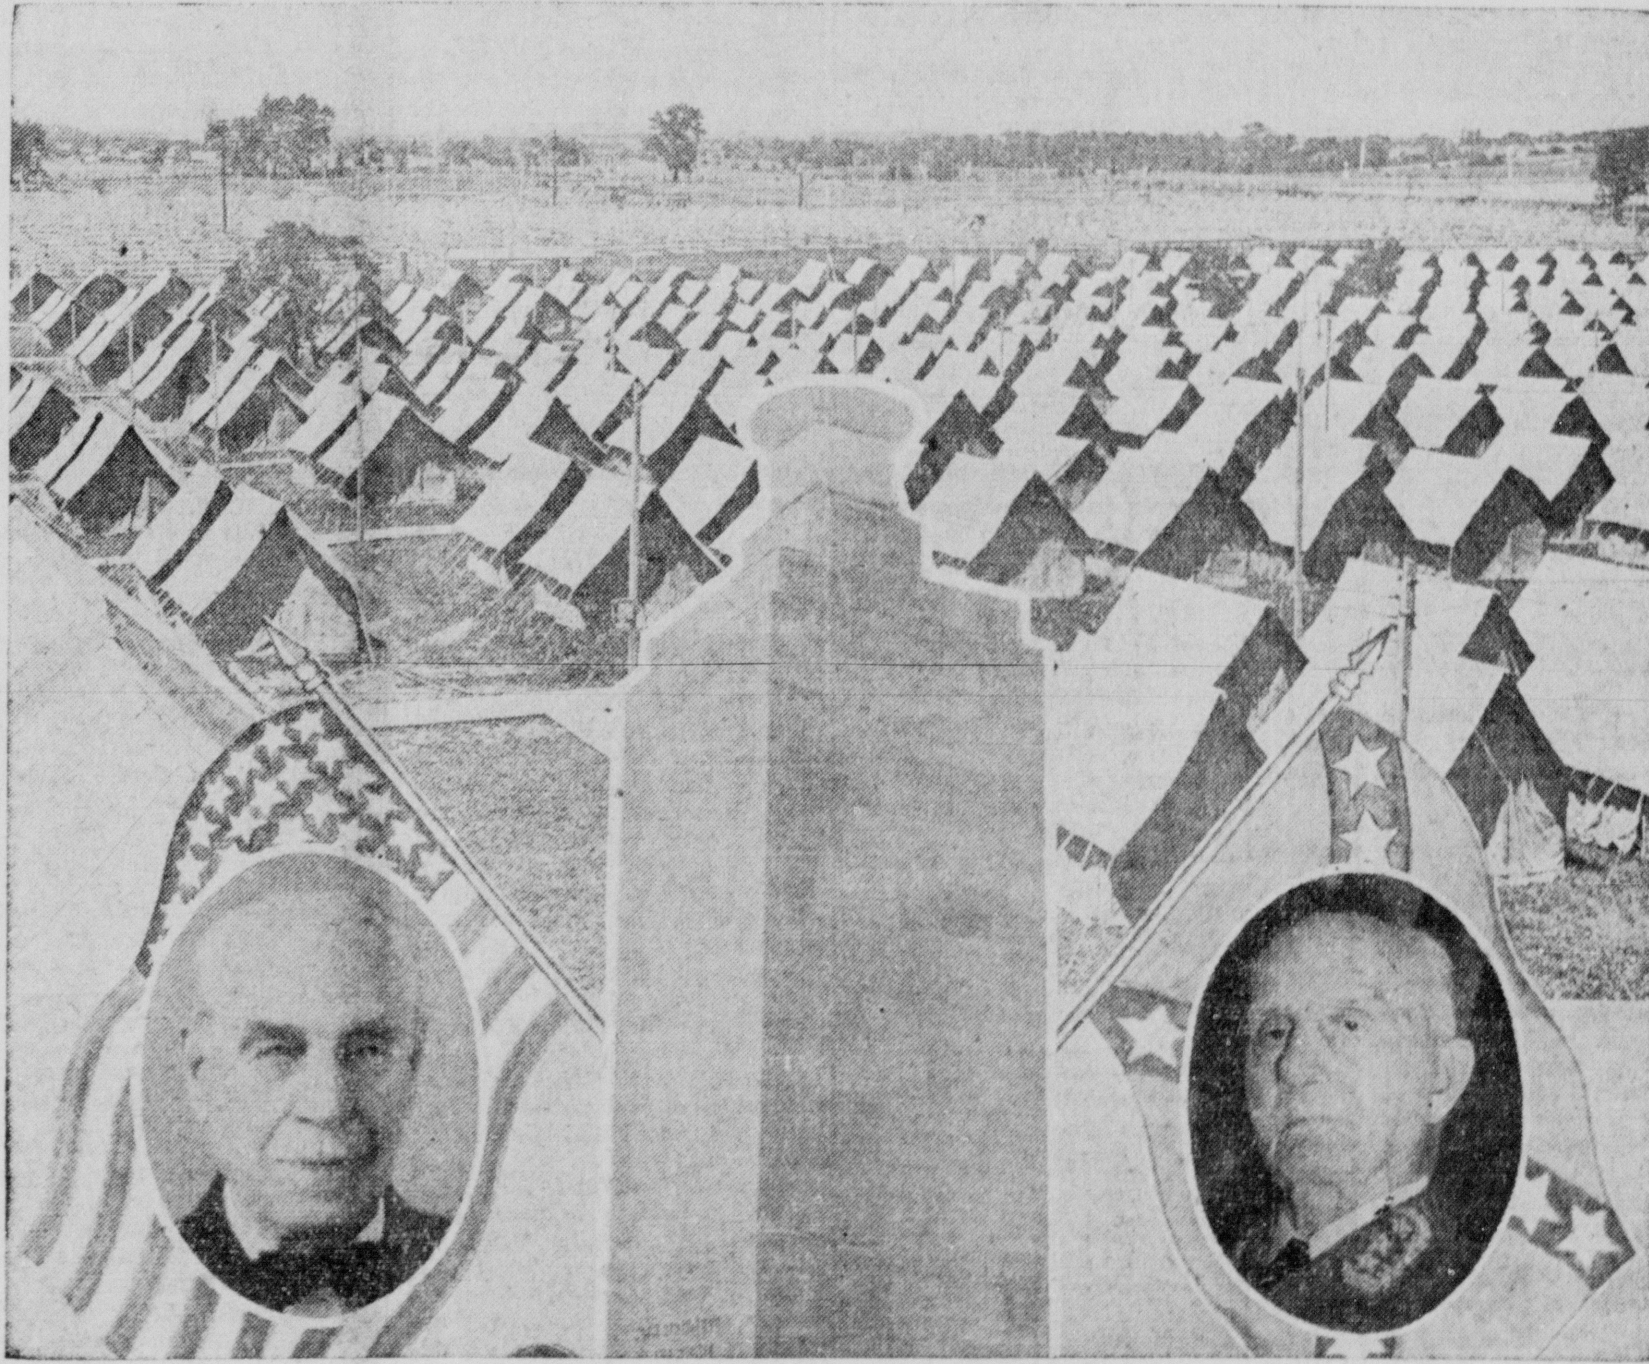

Making it clear that it is the aim of the police to expedite the movement of the heavy traffic that is expected here with as much ease and with as little inconvenience to the motorists as possible, the police official asked the cooperation of the motoring public. He declared that the success of handling the traffic situation satisfactorily depends largely upon the help received from the motorists themselves.

Major Henry contradicted rumors, that have been current to the effect that traffic will be routed around Gettysburg, with the statement that there will be no changes in the regular flow of traffic into the borough from all the main roads leading to Gettysburg.

Through traffic will be afforded the opportunity to use alternate routes around Gettysburg if it is desired to avoid heavy traffic in and about the town and not visit the borough. Major Henry said that his officers will not interfere in any way with through traffic choosing to use the direct route through the town.

21 FIREMEN ARE ASSIGNED HOURS FOR CAMP DUTY

Twenty-one Gettysburg firemen will receive instructions Sunday afternoon on duties and use of equipment as special firemen in service at the veterans' camps on the northwest edge of the borough. The special firemen, who are being employed by the government, will begin their duties at 7 o'clock Monday morning.

The group has been divided into three shifts, each of which will serve eight hours daily. Each detachment will be in charge of the chief or an assistant and will include six additional men. Chief James A. Aumen will be in charge of the detachment that goes on duty Monday morning and each subsequent morning at 7 o'clock until the encampment ends. Their daily duties end at 3 p. m. The men under him are Francis Stevens, Emory Strausbaugh, Edward Anzenberger, Bertus Strausbaugh, Harry Mort and Howard Small.

Assistant Chief Paul A. Oyler heads the shift that will work from 3 until 11 o'clock each afternoon and evening. The men under him are William Little, Charles Rupp, Herbert Shriver and John Bowers.

The third detachment, headed by Assistant Chief Wilbur J. Stallsmith, will work from 11 p. m. until 7 a. m. The men in that group are Richard Cole, Lester Oyler, Charles Rosensteel, Robert Gilbert, Bert Hummer and Stephen Smith.

The firemen will not be in full uniform, but will wear firemen's caps and their badges. Coats and boots will be moved from the engine house to the camp. Water pipe outlets, 72 fire barrels, a number of hose reels, two sirens and extinguishers have been distributed throughout the camp for its protection from fire.

The 21 firemen will meet Sunday afternoon at 1:45 o'clock (D.S.T.) at the engine house from where they will go to the camp to be assigned regular posts and given instructions. Shift changes are scheduled on Daylight Saving Time.

Miss Lois Canfield, Philadelphia, is visiting friends in Gettysburg.

3,000 Soldiers Are Ready For Anniversary Maneuvers

Uncle Sam's regular Army troops, more than 3,000 strong, are now encamped on the historic Gettysburg battlefield. They are bivouacked on the open plain generally known as the scene of Pickett's famous charge, made on the afternoon of July 3, 1863.

Sprawling over more than 200 acres of land, this tented city of the regular Army troops which includes infantry, field artillery, cavalry, tank corps, chemical warfare units, coast artillery and others, are prepared to play an important part in the 75th Anniversary of the battle of Gettysburg and the final reunion of the Blue and the Gray from June 29 to July 6. One of the colorful ceremonies will be the reception for the Secretary of War, Harry H. Woodring.

C. H. RICHTER, 65, ASSEMBLYMAN AND JUSTICE OF PEACE, EXPIRES

Charles Henry Richter, 65, representative to the General Assembly from Adams county, veteran justice of the peace and a former public school teacher, died Friday afternoon at 2:15 o'clock (E.S.T.) at his home in Berwick township. Death was due to a heart attack.

Mr. Richter had complained of feeling ill about 11 o'clock Friday morning and had visited his physician in Hanover. Upon his return home about noon he had gone to bed where death occurred a short time later. He had suffered a heart condition for about two years and had been under the care of a physician.

The deceased was a son of the late John D. and Julia Ann (Kemper) Richter and was born and lived his entire life in the house in which he died. His wife, the former Grace B. Swartz died on December 30, 1928.

Started Teaching at 17

After attending the public schools of Adams county, Mr. Richter graduated from the State Normal school at Shippensburg. He started teaching school at the age of 17 years at Newman's school in the South Mountains. From there he transferred to Sand Hill school in Conewago township where he taught until 1907 or 1908 when he was elected to a teaching position in the grade public schools of Hanover. He was a member of the teaching staff in the Hanover school district until 1926 when he was elected a teacher in Berwick township where he served until his election to the General Assembly.

Mr. Richter was serving the second year of his two-year term in the state Legislature. Last month he was defeated in a campaign for the Democratic nomination for re-election to the same office.

He had served as a justice of the peace in Berwick township for more than 30 years.

Funeral on Monday

A past elected ruler of the Hanover lodge of Elks, the deceased was a member of Hebron lodge of the Masons of New Oxford. He was a member of St. Mark's Lutheran church of Hanover and had taught the Men's Bible class in that church for a number of years.

Surviving are two children: Charles Henry Richter, Jr., and Miss Grace Giff Richter, both at home; two sisters and a brother: John Edward Richter, Hanover R. 3; Mrs. H. A. Markle, Hampton, and Mrs. John E. McDonnell, West Middle street.

Funeral services Monday morning at 10:30 o'clock (E.S.T.) in the Feiser funeral home in Hanover with his pastor, the Rev. John S. Tome, officiating. Interment in Mt. Olivet cemetery, Hanover.

Friends may call Sunday evening from 6 to 9 o'clock (E.S.T.) at the Feiser funeral home.

2 Hanoverians in Service Promoted

Washington, June 25 (AP)—Approval by President Roosevelt of a revised advancement system will mean promotions for 571 Navy and Marine officers.

The Navy announced the promotions would be made as soon as details are worked out. Those listed as due for advancement, with their present stations, include Ellis Hugh Gelselman, Army War college, promoted to captain, and William L. Hoffheims, Jr., advanced to Lieutenant commander. Both are from Hanover.

ON SPECIAL DUTY

Corporal J. G. Warren and Officers G. F. Henry and K. Yemow, of the local substation of the state motor police, were in Harrisburg today on a special detail in connection with the V. F. W. convention parade.

FREE PRE-VIEW OF 4 FAIR ACTS IS ANNOUNCED

(Continued from Page One) and other matters held over until the next meeting of the executive group at 8 o'clock on the evening of Friday, July 22.

Arrangements were made to have the premium lists for the 1939 fair ready for distribution in about a month.

Entertainment Announced
The "very outstanding" entertainment acts that have been engaged and which will perform to the accompaniment of a professional band were announced by Secretary A. D. Sheely. The entertainment bill includes the Stephani sisters, acrobats and circus performers just returned from a successful European tour; Will Morris and Bobby, eccentric comedians who specialize in a bicycle act; the Rexola company, acrobats and fancy skaters with a reputation for their versatility, and the Balabanow accordion sextette of four girls and two boys, radio and movie performers who had to be engaged more than a year in advance in order to secure their appearance here in September.

The professional band music to which the stage performances will be presented will not replace the high school bands which have appeared annually on the fair grounds but will supplement their concerts.

After impressing the group with the fact that the success of the fair depends largely upon the efforts of the volunteer workers, Chairman Knouse called upon departments heads for the suggestions.

Suggestions Given
Mrs. Herbert Bryan, head of the home economics department, asked for minor changes in her premium list with the addition of one class of crocheted work and the omission of four other classifications and the juvenile department. Her recommendations were approved. Mrs. Bryan set the period from 1 to 10 p. m. Tuesday, September 13, for the placing of exhibits in her building.

Mrs. Guy Herring, culinary division head, announced a preference for only quart jars in the canned fruit and vegetable exhibits. The proposal was approved for entrance in the premium list.

The addition of a honey exhibit to the fruit building, always one of the high spots of the fair, was approved with a small budget increase for that department to cover honey premiums. Raspberries, strawberries and walnuts were ruled out of the fruit show as unseasonable. In the absence of Parker Kline head of the vegetable department, a proposal for enclosing the lower section of the exhibit space was made.

Judging Policies Fixed
Questions raised about judging policies in the flower department by Mrs. Robert Eicholtz, chairman, brought a decision to base all awards in all departments on the merit of the exhibit regardless of whether the exhibitor already had been given a prize in a particular class. Flowers may be placed on display from 9 a. m. until 9 p. m. on Tuesday, September 13.

J. B. Bushey, head of the school exhibits, told the committee he needs more space and a proposal to enlarge the building was held over for study by the financial committee and the park board. Bushey said Lewis Bosserman, who is chairman of the penmanship and art division of the school displays, has preparations well organized. More rigid requirements for agricultural exhibits in that department were approved, as was a request that the American flag be flown from that display building.

George Hoffman announced a ferris wheel and merry-go-round already engaged and that concessions are "all right." Policing hours were set from 10:30 p. m. to 8:30 a. m. and George A. Kane, who is in charge of the guards, asked that while police are not on duty the department head or an assistant be constantly in each exhibit building.

Speaking for the group that conducts the fair restaurant, Mrs. Ruth Taylor asked for two new stoves and new kitchen utensils.

House Premiums Increased
L. V. Stock reported the plans for the new high school department are incomplete and indicated that the proposal to sponsor student judging teams may influence the arrangements to be announced at the next meeting. Elias Hoffman, of the agronomy division, requested that his building be enclosed or moved and favored higher premiums for exhibitors there.

The poultry division report by Charles A. Smith led to instructions to issue premiums only on those offered in the list and to give prizes only for standard breed fowls, excluding bantams and game chickens. Increases were voted in the premiums offered for teams of horses and repairs were ordered for the horse quarters on the recommendation of Charles Hartman, department chairman. No recommendations were given from the swine division headed by John Raffensperger, but represented Friday evening by Charles Bushey.

P. S. Orner reported parking arrangements completed. He was authorized to proceed with the printing of exhibit tags for each depart-

A DIFFERENCE

August, Ga.—A young woman applicant for a civil service job here knows now that between "light-house keeping" and "light house-keeping" there's more difference than appears to the eye. At the postoffice, where she tried to sign up for the examination as assistant lighthouse keeper, officials explained the only similarity in this modern age of electricity is that neither lighthouse keepers nor light housekeepers have to trim the lamps any more.

DEMONSTRATION

Peru, Ind.—Ten-year-old Richard Bushkull's imitation is almost as effective as the punch Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis uses—but in reverse. Demonstrating to his mother the manner in which Louis knocked out Max Schmeling last Wednesday night, the boy slipped on the kitchen floor and fractured his right arm.

KEEPING COOL

Lindsborg, Kas.—This was one night the heat didn't bother Carl Johnson. He locked the doors of the Lindsborg Mercantile company, then paused to put some goods in the store's big icebox. The refrigerator latch slipped locked. Johnson spent 12 night hours in ice cool solitude.

GOT HIS GOAT

Klamath Falls, Ore.—A pugnacious billy goat wandered into A. D. Addison's house, saw another goat. Addison is shopping for a new full length mirror.

NOT SO HOT

Des Moines.—Police voted Linn Robinson the "coolest man in town" but objected when he appeared in the business district clad only in swimming trunks. He was arrested and charged with intoxication.

BRANCHING OUT

Marshalltown, Ia.—The custodian of Riverview park is having his pruning shears resharpened. He reported the rustic benches which dot the recreation grounds have been given new life by the wet weather and are sprouting.

UNFINISHED BUSINESS

Wilmington, Del.—Workmen who erected steel reviewing stands at the municipal building for the Swedish tercentenary celebration, opening Monday, were called back for some "unfinished business." They forgot to provide a speaker's stand.

Officers Make Anniversary Traffic Plans

(Continued from Page One) drivers to co-operate with efforts to move traffic as rapidly as possible by making deliveries during the early morning hours in Gettysburg. The police will appreciate truckers' efforts to avoid congestion during hours of heavier traffic. Double parking will be permitted where absolutely necessary for loading or unloading.

No Angle Parking

All angle parking zones along the four main streets will be abolished from June 29 to July 6, the major announced. Parking of cars on the wrong side of the streets will not be permitted at any time. On July 2, Veterans' Day, parking will be prohibited from noon until after the parade in these areas: Center square, North and South Washington streets, Carlisle street from center square to Lincoln avenue and Baltimore street from the square to Steinwehr avenue.

The south side of the first block of West Lincoln avenue is to be reserved for official cars during the entire period of the anniversary celebration.

No Sunday Regulations

No special traffic regulations have been announced for the town for Sunday, July 3, when President Roosevelt will be here to dedicate the Eternal Light Peace Memorial. No need is anticipated for special arrangements in the central part of town because of the fact that the President will leave the train from a special siding that has been built off West Lincoln avenue.

The presidential party with a police escort, will move directly to the site of the memorial by Lincoln avenue, College avenue and the Mummansburg road. President Roosevelt will return to his train at the same place soon after the exercises. The President will come here from Hyde Park, New York, by way of Harrisburg. He will continue over the Western Maryland road to Washington, D. C., passing through New Oxford and Hanover.

All units in the regular Army contingent will participate, in full field equipment, in the parade to be held Saturday afternoon and which will be reviewed by the Secretary of War, veterans of the Civil war and a large group of distinguished guests.

On Sunday, July 3, the regular Army units will again step into the official spotlight and accord honors to the President of the United States, Franklin D. Roosevelt.

A cavalry escort will be in readiness some seven or eight hundred feet from the unloading station, especially constructed for the President, when his train arrives in Gettysburg at 6 p. m. (D.S.T.). When the President's automobile leaves the unloading station the regular Army escort of cavalry will proceed on College avenue to the intersection of Broadway and the Mummansburg road, thence up the Mummansburg road to the Peace Memorial.

21-Gun Salute

At the same moment, the first of 21 guns will be fired and the twenty-first gun, concluding the official salute to the President will fire the last shot just as the President's car reaches the Peace Memorial stand. The presidential party will follow seven or eight hundred feet in the rear with an escort of motorcycles. When the President arrives at the Peace Memorial site he will find a

M'CORMICK IS STILL MISSING; COMPANION DEAD

Albuquerque, N. M., June 25 (AP).—The bluff Sandia mountains, frowning down upon the Rio Grande valley, hid today the fate of John Medill McCormick, feared the victim of a fall from one of their precipitous peaks.

Searchers, who resumed their tragic task at dawn, expected only the worst—that they would find the mangled body of the Chicago publisher heir, much as Friday night they came upon that of his mountain-climbing companion, 20-year-old Richard Whitmer, of Albuquerque.

Racked by anxiety, Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick Simms waited Friday night in Juan Tabo C.C.C. camp, at the base of the mountains, hoping to learn that her 20-year-old son still lived.

She heard only that young Whitmer's boy, skull crushed, almost denuded, had been found at the base of "The Shield," sheer rock face of North Sandia peak. Nowhere near was there a sign of John Medill McCormick.

The mountain climber's urge for new conquests led to the tragic venture, friends revealed today.

The youths had climbed steep South Sandia peak and Wednesday they set out to try the face of North Sandia.

Young Whitmer lay in a crumpled heap at the foot of "The Shield." Searchers theorized that the climbers were bound together, Alpine-fashion, by a rope, and that as Whitmer fell the strand slipped from his body, carrying his clothing with it.

The shock of Whitmer's fall, they believed, must have dislodged young McCormick, dashing him from the precipitous wall.

The cliff up which they started was "an impossible climb" in the opinion of John Matthews, veteran Albuquerque mountaineer.

"If you attempt to scale the face," he said, "you can go up but you can't get down. Your face would be against the rock and your only vision would be sideways."

The peak rises 10,800 feet above sea-level, and towers nearly a mile over the valley below.

Stock Report

New York, June 25 (AP)—Stock market leaders inclined to slip in today's early dealings as traders took profits on the 5-day sharp run-up.

At a relatively quiet start, losses up to a point or so were registered for United States Steel, Bethlehem, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Westinghouse, Chrysler, Santa Fe, Anaconda, American Smelting and American Telephone.

Slightly improved were New York Central, International Nickel and Douglas Aircraft.

HANDICAR DEMOLISHED
A motorized handcar was reported demolished in a collision with a Reading company locomotive near town late Friday afternoon.

Several men riding on the small car escaped injury. Railroad officials were here today to investigate the accident. No explanation of the cause of the accident or the manner in which it occurred was made by the railroad.

DIES IN NEW MEXICO

The former Anna M. Cresler, wife of George A. Kaseman, 69-year-old Albuquerque, New Mexico, banker and philanthropist whose death was reported Friday, was known and has visited here. She is an acquaintance of Mrs. Elsie Singmaster Lewars. Mr. Kaseman was killed by the premature explosion of a time bomb about to be lowered into a New Mexico oil well on Friday.

V.F.W. MEETING TO END TODAY

Harrisburg, June 25 (AP)—Election of officers, a parade of thousands of former soldiers, and military ball today will wind up a three-day combination of seriousness and high jinks which marked the 19th annual encampment of the Pennsylvania department, Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Heading toward the close of their sessions, the veterans still were talking of their visit to Governor Earle.

They invited the Governor to visit their convention. In reply the Governor sent word for "all the boys" to call at the executive mansion—and they did by the hundreds. However, they left behind the baby tank that has been clanking about the capital's streets and laying down a barrage of blanks from its gun.

In their business sessions, they supported a program calling for opposition to Fascism, Nazism and Communism, and urged that legislation be enacted to eradicate proponents of those forces.

They advocated allotment of funds for acquisition and development of parks adjacent to metropolitan districts and urged that needy veterans be given W.P.A. jobs without being taken from the relief rolls.

SEA MONSTER TO BE DISPLAYED HERE

The Mammoth Marine Hippodrome, will exhibit in Gettysburg on four days, starting July 2. The exhibit, on a specially constructed railroad car over 100 feet long, will be located near the Reading railroad passenger station.

"Colossus" a 68-ton sea monster, more than 55 feet long, is one of the feature attractions.

The grapefruit was brought to Florida by the Spaniards in the 16th century.

F. D. R. DECLARES RIGHT TO FIGHT FOR HIS POLICIES

Washington, June 25 (AP)—President Roosevelt, declaring a right to intervene in Democratic primaries, gave virtual notice today that he was prepared to fight personally for election of a Congress favorable to his policies.

In his 12th "fireside chat" Friday night, the President made it plain that he would not hesitate to speak out when he thought a contest between a "liberal" and a "conservative" warranted.

"As President of the United States, I am not asking the voters of the country to vote for Democrats next November as opposed to Republicans or members of any other party," he said. "Nor am I, as President, taking part in Democratic primaries.

"As the head of the Democratic party, however, charged with the responsibility of carrying out the definitely liberal declaration of principles set forth in the 1936 Democratic platform, I feel that I have every right to speak in those few instances where there may be a clear issue between candidates for a Democratic nomination involving these principles or involving a clear misuse of my own name."

The President spoke into a half dozen microphones from behind a small desk in the diplomatic reception room of the White House.

He reviewed the legislation enacted by the last Congress and asked for co-operation of capital and labor in maintaining wages and in replacing federal "pump priming" outlays with private spending.

"Barring unforeseen events," he told his listeners, there would be no special session of Congress.

He mentioned also the defeat last year of his proposal to re-organize the courts and asserted the net result had been "an important victory for the people of the United States—A lost battle which won a war."

"The attitude of the Supreme Court towards constitutional questions is entirely changed," he added. "Its recent decisions are eloquent testimony of a willingness to collaborate with the two other branches of government to make democracy work."

In a thrust at his opponents he asserted that "copperheads" had waged a "concerted campaign of defeatism" last year in an effort to stop governmental reform.

Government can not "take a holiday of a year, or a month or even a day" from its efforts "to meet continuing problems," he declared.

WEDDING

Double Ceremony

Before an audience of about 150 persons that included more than a score of friends and relatives from Gettysburg, Fairfield and other points in this county, the Misses Katharine and Gertrude Main, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Harper P. Main, of near Shippensburg, were married Friday afternoon in a double ceremony performed at 3:30 o'clock (E.S.T.) in the Presbyterian church at Shippensburg. Miss Katharine Main became the bride of Frank A. Failor, of Mechanicsburg, and her sister married Scott Winthrop Spencer, of Carbondale.

The double ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Galbraith, pastor of the church, and the Rev. Fred E. Christian, Mechanicsburg.

Miss Margaret Knox Scott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Hugh Scott, Knoxlyn Mills, a cousin of the brides was one of the four bridesmaids.

A reception followed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Failor will reside in Mechanicsburg and Mr. and Mrs. Spencer at Carbondale.

13 WILL PARTICIPATE IN SWINE JUDGING

Arrangements are being made to have the 13 members of Adams county's only 4-H pig feeding club go to York county to participate with members of six similar organizations there in instruction in swine judging in preparation for statewide competition during the state 4-H club week at Pennsylvania State college, August 10 to 13.

L. C. Madison, live stock specialist from the state college, will instruct the boys and girls in livestock judging.

After other training sessions the county club members will compete for the right to represent Adams county at the August meet.

On next Thursday evening after returning from York, the club will conduct its monthly meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Benner, Iron Springs.

TO HEAR ABOUT CONVENTION

Members of the Gettysburg Lions' club will hear reports of the recent state convention at York on Monday evening when they gather at 6:30 o'clock (D.S.T.) at Mrs. Smith's restaurant for their weekly session. The convention reports will be given by Lions G. N. Waters and C. Paul Cessna.

Announcement has been made that the annual installation of officers will take place on Monday evening, July 11.

DETROIT CLIMBS STEADILY INTO FIRST DIVISION

By SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer

American league managers better get out their shootin' irons. Mickey Cochrane's Tiger is on the prowl at last, full of red meat and ripping things apart.

Those "boom boom" boys, "Roundhouse" Rudy York and "Hammering" Hank Greenberg, and the always dependable Charley Gehringer, have hooked up with something new in the way of a batting punch in Chet Laabs—and there isn't a fence in the loop safe from their cannon shots.

Relying almost exclusively on this clouting quartet, "Iron" Mike's Detroiters have surged up out of sixth place and into the first division. They've won 13 of their last 20 games, four of them in a row, the latest a 12-8 knock-down drag-out brawl with the Yankees Friday.

The Tigers have connected for 149 runs and 218 hits in their 20-game drive, for an average of slightly more than seven tallies and ten base blows a game. As evidence that their pitchers would never gladden the heart of a Bill Terry, the statistics show that their opposition in this stretch scored 116 runs, or just under six per game.

They've walloped 28 homers in their drive, ten of them by "Roundhouse" Rudy, seven by "Big" Hank, and four each by Laabs and "Strong-Silent" Charley. This quartet has driven in a total of 88 runs and has scored 85 in the 20-game run.

Rookie Johnny Humphries, set the Boston Red Sox down with a half dozen hits to give the Indians to a 7-6 decision. This victory, coupled with the Yanks' defeat, left the Tribe with a 4½-game lead in the American league race, while the Tigers, in fourth place, were only two games out of second.

The Athletics-Chicago White Sox tilt was rained out, and the Senators-St. Louis Browns engagement was re-scheduled for a double-header Sunday.

Over in the National league, the Giants remained just a game-and-a-half in front of the "Rude" Reds from Cincinnati. Bill Terry's outfit, aided by Master Melvin Ott's game-wrecking home in the eighth, topped the collapsible Cubs from Chicago, 5-3. The Reds met up with stubborn opposition from the Phillies, but Ernie Lombardi's three hits, driving in three runs, accounted for a 6-4 win.

Fat Freddy Fitzsimmons, one of the more consistent pitchers these days, hurled a nine-hitter and led the Brooklyn Dodgers to a 5-2 decision over the St. Louis Cardinals. The Pirates-Boston Bees game was set back to Sunday to become part of another of those synthetic double-headers.

SPECIAL SUBMARINE FOR ARCTIC WATERS DESCRIBED BY WILKINS

Oslo (AP)—A $150,000 stainless steel submarine for use as a permanent weather bureau under the ice at the north pole is envisaged by Sir Hubert Wilkins, Arctic explorer and Antarctic aviator.

Sir Hubert says weather reports must be greatly improved before a regular air route can be established across the polar icefields.

"The only effective way to secure such reports is to have a floating headquarters, and that headquarters must be under the ice because the ice masses are in constant drift," he says.

"A submarine could remain at the north pole for three years. Food and equipment would be supplied by airplanes, which landed on the ice before winter began.

"Life in such a submarine would be quite comfortable, as the temperature of the Arctic ocean is only 32 degrees Fahrenheit, although the air is intensely cold."

Sir Hubert says he has perfected an instrument, which would drill a hole through the ice from the submarine, so scientists could get to the surface to take observations.

Sports Roundup

BY EDDIE BRIETZ

New York, June 25 (AP)—Suspicious sports writers began to smell the well-known rat when Robert Taylor, the movie star, was spotted in a delegation of Californians trying to talk Mike Jacobs into staging a heavyweight championship fight in San Francisco next year.

Particularly since Taylor's next picture will be built around a fight story. . . . The westerners are taking it seriously and guaranteed Mike a million potatoes to stage the show. . . . Mike told 'em to rake up the dough and then come back. . . . Six months ago, Mike said: "From now on, all my important shows will be held in New York."

Taylor, by the way, made a big hit with the hard-boiled New York boxing writers, who can spot a phoney a block away. . . . He may be beautiful to the girls, but to the scribes he is just a well set-up, extremely personable young man who uses choice cuss words and knows his boxing and boxers.

Unusual stories: The Yankees (who own Newark) selling a ball player (Bob Seeds) to the hated Giants. . . . Chicago sports writers say Windy City fans have about given up on the Cubs this year. . . . Note to sports editors: Mike Jacobs will have Max Baer signed to a three-year contract by nightfall and that means a Louis-Baer joust in September if Louis isn't scared off by the high income tax rate. . . . In 19 years of coaching, Wallace Wade of Duke, one of the best coaches in the country, has won only two games by the margin of extra points. . . . Incidentally, both were by scores of 20-19.

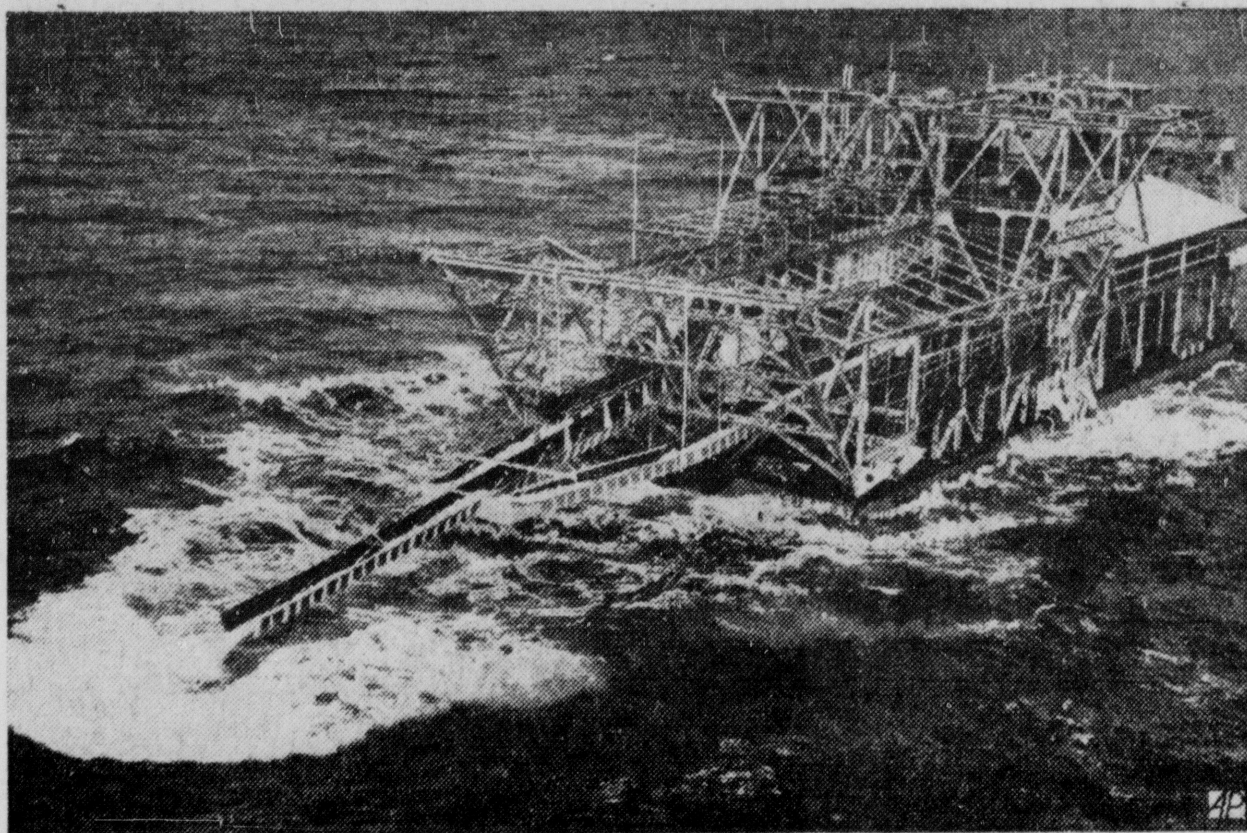

Hats off to Art Cohn, sports editor of the Oakland (California) Tribune. . . . The exit line in his column Wednesday read: "Today's wish—some candid cameraman gets a picture of the expression on Herr Hitler's puss tonight when he hears that Schmeling was knocked out in the first round." . . . That's calling 'em, Butch, and Guss Uhlmann comes up with the picture in Friday's New York Post.

The uniform Babe Ruth uses to coach the Dodgers had to be made to order. . . . Col. Rupert is beginning to worry a whole lot about the way the Yanks are going. . . . Early arrivals at Ebbets field these days are getting a great kick out of watching Babe Ruth slug that baseball. . . . He's fat and forty-odd but still can do tricks with that war club. . . . He's lost at least two balls with drives over the palings every day since he joined the club.

TO "MILK" SNAKES

Philadelphia, June 25 (AP)—Guardians of the snake house will stage a special public exhibition of rattlesnake "milking" at the zoological gardens Sunday. The snakes, caught recently on a South Dakota prairie, will be made to squirt their venom into a glass vessel. It is used to treat — among other things — snakebite.

Hollywood

By Robbin Coons

Hollywood—The Cinderella business is picking up.

For a time Hollywood wouldn't even look at the fabled heroine unless she'd been in a Broadway hit, toured in stock, or at least brought some little theater experience with her to Hollywood.

The old silent film custom of looking behind five-and-dime counters, in restaurant kitchens, in barber shops for potential movie stars was forgotten. People like that—the studios said airily—couldn't talk. You had to have training, and long years of it, to be a talkie actor or actress.

They were forgetting that Garbo, once worked in a barber shop, and that Clara Bow was a Brooklyn kid with her picture in a beauty

Warner Baxter's—as heroine of "Kidnaped."

Moving Up

The latest is Erin Drew, formerly known as Terry Raye.

Erin, 22, petite, blondish, is getting places fast—and she's the epitome of Cinderella as Hollywood has known them from the first. Yesterday a minor stock player, doing "atmosphere" work on the sets, today she's the one girl in "Sing You Sinners" with Bing Crosby and Fred MacMurray. Tomorrow she's one of two girls opposite Ronald Colman in "If I Were King," the other being Frances Dee. And the day before yesterday—she was a waitress in a Hollywood confectionery, taking orders for ice cream, sodas, hot fudge sundaes, and getting $10.50 a week plus tips, or around $18.

Before that she worked in Chicago—Christmas help in a department store, followed by a steady job in a five-and-ten, or strictly speaking, as Erin does it, a "five-to-a-dollar department store." People were always telling her she should be in pictures: "But you know how that is," says she. "Most of them were the 'sugar-daddy' type, just a line. Fact is, I always wanted to be an actress—but coming to Hollywood seemed just a laugh out of the question."

A Big Night

When she did come to Hollywood, people kept on telling her she should be in pictures, but the only one she took seriously was an agent, who came back with credentials and an offer of a test at Paramount. So the girl who'd dished up scoops of ice cream for George Raft, Melvyn Douglas and other ice cream-eaters went to the studio and began serving time.

It was a big night for her one Tuesday when, according to custom, the stock players of Oliver Hinsdell's "school" put on their regular show for executives and directors of the lot. Erin did a scene from "Golden Boy" with a young stocker named Philip Warren and Wesley Ruggles ordered a test of her for "Sing You Sinners." Before that picture was finished Frank Lloyd tested her for the Colman film—and here she is, on her way.

She thinks Philip Warren is going to get places too.

Paul Muni took so many screen tests for "Scarface" that he lost patience with the whole idea and hid away, leaving his wife to do as she pleased about arranging his movie work. Muni now, however, is a fiend for tests, giving days and weeks to each new role.

Lewis Stone was tested elaborately for a certain role before—it really happens sometimes—the script clerk discovered he had been tested for the wrong picture.

The Story of OD and AD and the 2 STORES

How OD and AD Opened their Stores

OD believed that the way to get customers was to sell at low prices, and that the way to sell at low prices was to keep his expenses down. So he spent as little as possible in fixing up his store. He said he was not going to "waste" money on "trick lighting" and a "fancy front." He bought large quantities of a few lines of merchandise, because that way he got them cheaper.

Then he put an assortment of his goods into the windows, but because he had done so little to make his store attractive, few people noticed that it was a new store, and few came in to buy.

AD decided that the first thing he must do was to make his store attractive to customers. So he had it painted throughout in cheerful colors. He completely changed the windows and front, and he put in fixtures that flooded the whole store with light.

He chose merchandise well-known by name to the public, and bought smaller quantities of many lines, thus giving customers a greater selection. He arranged his stock in the store to make shopping convenient. He put in window displays of his most interesting merchandise—and changed them frequently.

Because his windows and his store were so attractive, many people stopped to look, and enough people came in to buy so that AD's goods sold quickly and he was soon ordering more of many items.

How OD and AD went after Customers

OD soon found that he could not get the customers he needed from those who passed by his store. So he had circulars printed and hired boys to distribute them from house to house. Sometimes they put them under the door or into the mail box but often they threw them on the porch or into the yard, and many were blown away. Also, OD found it was a slow and costly way to tell his story, as in a whole day a boy could cover only a few hundred homes.

OD was disappointed to find that after all this work and expense, only a few more people came to his store.

AD decided that the more people he could tell about his merchandise, the more people would come to his store. So he put advertisements into newspapers read by many thousands of people every day. He knew that people were eager to get their newspapers to read the news. Therefore, his advertising was more likely to be seen in a paper people wanted to read. Also, the newspapers were delivered all over the city as soon as they were printed.

AD found that the more he advertised, the more people came to his store and the more goods he sold and the less it cost him to handle each sale. So he passed on the greater part of these savings in lower prices and better values to all his customers.

How OD Failed and AD Succeeded

OD found that so few people came to his store that his goods moved very slowly. He could buy very little new stock because his money was tied up.

So he decided to have a clearance sale. He had big signs painted for the front of his store. He had circulars printed and sent boys out to put them into parked cars and distribute them at homes. But the people who came saw so little they wanted that his sale was a failure. At last, he disposed of all his remaining stock to an out-of-town bargain store at less than half what he had paid for it.

OD had had a very unhappy experience, but because he had never advertised in the newspapers, few people in all the city ever knew that his store had opened or that it had closed.

AD found that with more and more people now coming to his store, his stocks moved very quickly. As a result, he was constantly able to have fresh, new merchandise for his customers.

AD Tells OD How Advertising Serves the Store and Its Customers

ONE DAY OD came to AD and applied for a position. He asked AD how he had built such a fine business and obtained so many customers.

AD said, "First, by making the store an attractive and convenient place to shop."

"Second, by having the kind of merchandise our customers want."

"But these are not sufficient without Advertising to tell the people about them. So we continuously publish interesting, informative, truthful news about our service and our merchandise. And we tell it in the way that reaches the largest possible number of people quickly—through newspaper advertising."

ALL IS CLEAR

THE teacher had seen Willy Nilly and knew that he lived in Pdule Muddle and that he could understand the language of animals. But she did not know that the little man's animal friends had become so used to Willy Nilly's talk that they could understand so much.

"Won't you come outside?" asked Willy Nilly. "I do not know what is happening. I am very much puzzled."

"We have been, too," said the teacher. "Perhaps you and your lamp will come inside the class room and sit at my desk by me so we can clear up everything."

Willy Nilly went into the school, followed by Sweet Face. As they walked inside Christopher Columbus Crow, flying overhead, noticed them and followed in, too.

"Tell them my name is Christopher Columbus Crow, and that I am a discoverer, too, and more or less belong in a school room," cawed Christopher.

"What does he say?" asked the teacher. The children could not keep from laughing to see a lamb, a cawing crow, and Willy Nilly on the platform by the teacher. Willy Nilly repeated what Christopher had said.

"Now what has happened"
asked the little man.

"We were to have had examinations," said the teacher, "and all our pencils have been taken."

"I took them," admitted Sweet Face, "so the children wouldn't fail in their examination. I heard them talking you see." Willy Nilly understood.

Today's Talk

By George Matthew Adams

WHERE?

WHERE does the song of the lark go when once sung into the meadow air? Where do the strangely mystic strains of the violin go as they leave the strings that nimble fingers have helped to release to hearing hearts?

Where does the beauty of the dying Sun go, as its lavish coloring envelops the dying day? Where does the fragrance of flowers go, after it has touched and stirred the senses, and silently clothed the heart with memories?

Where do the dreams of the unsuccessful go—the dreams of those who so gloriously fail? Into what sacred urn are the unrecorded sacrifices of those, who have given of their very life substance, preserved? Into what realm are the evaporated tears of sorrow and disappointment transported?

Where do the voices of the loved and lost go—when no longer audible to our mortal ears? Do they melt into the melody of the night, or do they soar to the stars—there to mingle with the mysteries of the millions unknown to man? Or, do they float among the clouds, again to reach the earth in the dew upon the morning grass, later to rise upon the golden rays of the Sun—into ethereal space?

These are questions that none of us is able to answer. We can only speculate, or imagine. There is one thing, however, just as invisible as the voice that is stilled, or the dying note of an inspired song—and that is influence.

Who is to measure influence, or know where it begins or ends? What is it that gives to it its makeup and enduring quality? One thing, at least, we know, and that is that influence is born in the heart. There it is fed, nurtured, and given life—finally being poured out into the life of the world in unselfish acts, in cheer and good will, in simple kindnesses, in silent sacrifices, and in a courageous outlook upon life.

Influence is eternal and immortal, for it never ends when once set into motion. Nations crumble and people die—but their good influence lives.

OCTAGON HOUSE

By Phoebe Atwood Taylor

The Story So Far: Asey Mayo,
Cape Cod detective, is investigating the murder of Marina Lorne, whose husband's post office mural has enraged Quammet. She was killed by a left handed blow from the knife of her sister Pam Frye.

Interested parties are: Tim Carr,
once married to Marina; Roddy Strutt, whose alibiing plane crash was deliberate; Peggy Boone, an artist; Jennings, an irate plumber; and persons unknown who burned down Frye's barn, destroyed Jack Lorne's mural sketches and defaced the mural itself.

Missing is a $50,000 lump of am-bergris belonging to Pam. Then Roddy is killed.

Chapter 44
A Neat Job
Two hours later, in the enormous living room at the Strutt house, Asey puffed on his pipe and listened wearily to the argument on between Dr. Cummings and Carveth on the subject of Roddy's death.

"Mr. Strutt," Cummings dropped his angry bellow and spoke in a voice so tauntly controlled that it startled even Asey. "I know that Roddy was your favorite nephew, and I know you've been upset during the last day or so, and I know you've suffered a tremendous blow tonight. But Roddy didn't kill himself. He was murdered."

"Roddy was driven to suicide!"
Carveth said.

"Look," Cummings' voice soared again. "I've tried to explain that I know how you feel, but I know the facts in the case. That's my job.
I've spent the last couple of hours just finding out facts. Roddy was murdered."

"The boy was driven to suicide," Carveth said with his stubborn persistence. "Everyone knows that suicides always go into a garage, shut the door and start a car—"

"But they don't lock the garage doors on the outside!" Cummings said. "With a padlock!"

"Everyone knows it!" Carveth went on, "and that's just what happened here. Roddy was so intimidated and so overwrought by these threats—why, he went out of his mind! He wasn't responsible for what he did."

"Carbon monoxide," Cummings said, "is a favorite with suicides.
But Roddy was killed. He went into the garage, and someone—either someone with him or someone waiting for him—hit him on the base of the skull, hard enough to stun him. Then they moved him so that his head rested under the exhaust of his roadster, and they started the roadster, and then they went out, snapping the padlock after them. Certainly you don't think that Roddy locked that padlock, and then crawled back through a crack!"

"What do you think?" Carveth appealed to Asey.

"I don't think," Asey said, "that I could ever prove it was suicide."

"Oh, I don't know what to do!"
Carveth seemed to crumple back into his chair. "I don't know what to do, or what to think!"

Dr. Cummings, too thoroughly annoyed with Strutt to stop and be sympathetic, hammered away at his point.

"Sheer reason," he said, "should convince you—"

Asey motioned for him to be silent. This was no time to attempt to reach any possible better judgment Carveth might possess.

"I wonder, Mr. Strutt," he said,
embarking on his tentative plan,
"about the newspaper angle. We kept this quiet up to now, but before long the reporters'll come.
There's a lot in town, an' you'll have to see 'em, an' talk with 'em—How about lettin' Elliott an' me write some sort of a statement for you?"

"Oh, would you?" Carveth asked eagerly.

Stain On The Escutcheon
The doctor raised his eyebrows and looked at Asey. That man could get more places with a little honey and molasses!

"But you got to consider," Asey went on, "the papers' angle, an' the position you an' your family hold. I wonder if, on the whole, it mightn't be wise to call it murder? I don't want to go against your wishes, but if we admit this is suicide, wouldn't it sort of be a—"

"Blemish," the doctor suggested.
"Blemish. A stain on the family escutcheon."

"Just so. Now, you knew that your nephew was involved in the Marina
Lorne business, didn't you, Mr.
Strutt?"

Carveth grudging admitted that he had guessed it.

"An' if we say that he committed suicide, then—well, folks'll start talkin' an' sayin' that Roddy probably had reason to kill himself."

People are always awful willin' to believe the unpleasantest things they can about anyone who kills himself. They want a reason, an'
I'm afraid that Marina's murder might turn out to be it. But if we say Roddy was murdered, people will be sorry. Praps sorry enough to forget some of the—uh—unpleasant incidents, an' all."

Carveth thought for a moment.
"By George," he said. "I never thought of that! I think you're right. You and Elliott fix up something—perhaps this will be the way to get Jennings. Yes, Yes, indeed."

nings is the handiest."

"In other words, you want the right hand in action, while the left brings forth rabbits. I see. Asey, are you so sure about Jennings? He certainly menaced magnificently last night. If you can believe Car-veth. And biffing Riddy over the head has a touch of Jennings about it."

"It's neat," Asey said. "The whole thing is neat, so much neater than I'd imagined at first that it makes my spine curl."

"Can you alibi Jennings?" the doctor asked, as he paused to pick up his black bag from the hall table.

"I can," Asey said. "I done some phonin' an' checkin' while you was busy out in the garage. Jennings is alibied by time, an' the Methodist minister. You see, Roddy'd disappeared just a little while before Elliott and I come here, that was around seven-thirty this evenin' or maybe a bit after. At just about that same time, the minister was pickin' up Jennings, about 100 yards from the Pochet hospital. At a quarter to eight, Lorne claims that Jennings was spankin' him. So you see, Jennings didn't have time to come here. The nurses can prove he was in his room at the hospital about fifteen minutes before the minister picked him up. They got him on a chart. There you are."

A Red Herring
"But where will Jennings be,
when Carveth and Hanson get going?"

"He's safe. I'll get him out, if they get him in too deep. I want a red herring here, an' it won't harm him to be it. He can take it. An' I hope he'll keep everyone busy—"

"While you sneak off and ferret out the murderers?" Cummings asked.

"The murderer," Asey corrected,
"Just one."

"Forgotten Marina?"

"Nope," Asey said. "Oh, I know what you're goin' to say, Doc. The first murder was a stabbin' an' this is a carbon monoxide by force, an' they don't seem alike. But they're alike in one thing. The knife they used was Pam's, an' the idea here,
I think, is for us to land on Jennings?" he asked.

Cummings set his bag down.
"Then you think that Roddy was being menaced, but not by Jennings?"

"I thought," Asey admitted, "all this menacin' was a yarn, at first.
Now I wonder if perhaps Roddy was bein' threatened all right. An' of course when Jennings turned up last night, naturally the Strutts thought that he was the menacer.
Only he wasn't."

The doctor sighed. "It gives you an unknown menacer to start with, I suppose, but I don't feel that's much of a foundation. How would anyone know that Jennings was the basher who went after you and the rest?"

"They wouldn't have to know," Asey said, "about that business in the woods, or any specific bashin'.
Jennings has a reputation for violence. Everyone knows what he thinks an' how he feels about Roddy. An' they know he's mad at the mural. He's a nice, likely person to pick out, just as Pam was. Are you ready? Then we'd better get goin'."

Elliott met them as they walked down to the garage where the doctor's car was parked.

"Hanson's come and gone," he said, and he left two messages for Asey. That he'd done all the checking, and it was okay. And what you wanted is on its way to you from Boston. Look, why did you check on me? Don't look so guileless, Hanson made a break!"

"The nicest people," Asey said, "do the strangest things. Elliott, you got to compose a statement for the press—an' then will you hang around here? Carveth's in a state, an' if you're helpful enough, you might get a new school. Besides, someone ought to be here who can make decisions."

The Congressman took copious notes on the backs of envelopes.
"There," he said. "Where'll you be?"

"Octagon House," Asey said. "Got anything, Lane?" he asked the officer who came over to them.

"No prints on the padlock, the car keys, the wheel, door or anything. Everything's clean. Wiped off. He got hit with that piece of wood you thought, but that's clean, too. And the padlock was not forced, Asey, I don't get this at all!"

NIPPON CAFE GIRL

REWARDED, FINED
FOR HONEST DEED
Tokyo (AP)—Being a good girl
after being a bad girl turned out to be poor business for Sumiko Terada, beautiful Tokyo cafe hostess.

Not long ago, a patron came to the bar where Miss Terada entertains. He flourished a healthy roll, bought drinks for the house, presented her with a huge bouquet of flowers. Then he suggested she accompany him to a restaurant
after the bar closed at midnight.

She did. There, she learned he had stolen the money. While he slept, she notified the police. They arrested the man, praised her for her civic virtue, gave her a reward,

three yen.

Then, with typical Japanese justice, they fined her 10 yen for violating the ordinance that prohibits cafe girls from accompanying patrons after midnight.

PARIS FINALLY RECOGNIZES

PEDESTRIANS ARE HUMAN
Paris (AP)—Pedestrians crossing
Paris streets outside of safety zones
no longer are "fair game" for motorists.

The widow of a man killed in such a mishap succeeded in upsetting the old ruling that any Parisian or visitor struck by an automobile outside the safety zones could not claim damages.

The Hudson river is the most important commercial waterway

on the Atlantic coast.

The product of the Newfoundland cod fisheries is valued at around $20,000,000 annually.

New Sound System Will Broadcast F.D.R. Speech

Washington, June 25 (AP)—A new mobile sound system unit, one of the largest of its kind will broadcast President Roosevelt's address July 3 at Gettysburg, Pa., the War department announced today.

Made to Army specifications, it was said to be capable of conveying words of a speaker to an audience of 100,000 or more. It will be given a preliminary tryout Monday at Fort Myer, Virginia.

Mr. Roosevelt will speak at the dedication of the Eternal Light Peace Memorial at Gettysburg.

DROP IN STEEL PRICE MAY CUT WORKERS' PAY

Pittsburgh, June 25 (AP)—Big steel's surprise cutting of steel prices $3 to $4 a ton in Pittsburgh and as high as $6 in Chicago, left the industry puzzling today about wages.

The decreases announced Friday by Carnegie Illinois steel, the nation's largest producer and largest subsidiary of United States Steel, ranged from 7 to 21 per cent and eliminated differentials between Pittsburgh and Chicago.

The new prices approximated the level of ten years ago and were made, the company said, to meet competitive conditions. Officials added the wage question was not involved and that any wage change must be discussed with the C.I.O.'s Steelworkers Organizing committee.

The Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad company, United States steel subsidiary in Birmingham, Alabama, announced a corresponding reduction.

Alabama's Governor Bibb Graves and Senator John A. Bankhead predicted the steel price cut would mean "great industrial progress for the south."

Elimination of the price differentials ended a 20-year fight by southern states which had criticized them as "discriminatory."

Independent producers were silent but some of their leaders agreed "off the record" they would have to match the new scale.

Most of the industry expected wages would be slashed.

PRESCRIPTIONS and PRICE TAGS

It is true that we make no effort to price our prescriptions on a "bargain counter" basis. Yet, because our volume is large, our costs are low. A prescription compounded here costs no more—and perhaps even less—than you would pay elsewhere. And you are advantaged by our large stocks of fresh, potent drugs, our high ethical standards, and our invariable policy of filling every prescription precisely as the Doctor directs.

ON THE AISLE

AMUSEMENTS: HERE AND THERE

NEXT WEEK AT THE MAJESTIC
 Monday and Tuesday—"COCOANUT GROVE."
 Wednesday—"SINNERS IN PARADISE."
 Thursday—"ONE WILD NIGHT."
 Friday and Saturday—"HOLIDAY."

"COCOANUT GROVE" a pleasantly tuneful item which starts out dully enough and the suddenly picks up interest and builds from there rather steadily. The pick-up occurs with the introduction of a catchy piece called "Says My Heart," sung by Harriet Hilliard and played—in a trailer camp setting—by Harry Owens and his Royal Hawaiian orchestra, which makes mighty good music.

The story asks you to care whether a run-down orchestra led by Fred MacMurray ever gets across country to try out for the Los Angeles night spot which gives the film its title. Strangely, because the music is good and most of the specialties engaging, I found myself caring enough to be interested.

MacMurray sings "You Leave Me Breathless," breathlessly but acceptably. Ben Blue and Eve Arden do comedy dances, Rufe Davis works in some imitations and songs, and the Yacht Club Boys fill in anqaps. Little Billy Lee on the traps is a high spot. Alfred Santell's direction, like the picture, is good when it gets under way.

In "Cocoanut Grove" one dance orchestra tries to impersonate another and is foiled, the intended victim being the hero's band. In "Gold Diggers in Paris" one dance troupe impersonates another and gets away with it, unethically but satisfactorily if, as you're supposed to be, you're on the hero's side.

The Strand theatre will offer "Feud Makers" with Bob Steele on Tuesday. On Saturday the feature film will be "Rider of the Black Hills," with the 3 Mesquitos.

"SINNERS IN PARADISE" is a sort of "Grand Hotel" on a tropical island. An assorted cast of characters is pitched thereon by the crash of a trans-Atlantic air liner. John Boles and servant are the only inhabitants—and then a lot of things happen. Madge Evans is the girl.

Hank Luisetti, Stanford's great basketball scoring ace, began studio training today for his film debut next week in "Campus Confessions."

LYLE TALBOT was one Hollywood actor who watched with amused interest the recent effort by Massachusetts legislator to compel film players to use their real names. He is billed as Lyle Talbot in the 20th Century-Fox mystery comedy, "One Wild Night," but the name he votes under is Lysle Hollywood!

June Lang and Dick Baldwin are featured with Talbot in "One Wild Night," which was directed by Eugene Ford.

Bing Crosby, who sang in St. Aloysius' boys' choir back home in Spokane, is a choir singer again in Paramount's "Sing Your Sinners," in which he is co-starred with Fred MacMurray.

THE new "Holiday"—same vehicle which in 1930 served Ann Harding well—is a splendidly enacted, brilliantly directed piece of film shrewdly aimed at popular applause. The co-stars are Katharine Hepburn and Cary Grant, here involved in an exchange of ideas that is purposely not so brittly clever as it was in Philip Barry's original stage play and in the Harding film version. Its jibes at vast wealth are as sharp as ever, but leavened occasionally—with the perspective of eight years which have not been too rich for the majority of customers—by admissions that money, while not all-important, is pretty nice.

Grant is the everyday fellow who falls for the daughter (Doris Nolan) of a Croesus (Henry Kolker). Grant learns about the relationship after they're engaged, but having just cleaned up a tidy sum himself it is his idea to take a long vacation while he's young enough to enjoy it, return later to make more money.

The girl and her father can't see that view, think life is for making millions and more of them, but the boy is abetted by his prospective sister-in-law (Miss Hepburn). In the final scenes, faced with a choice between the fiancée's point of view and his own, he chooses—well, K. Hepburn is his co-star.

The role, played with a slightly pixilated grace, is probably Hepburn's best—at any rate since "Little Women."

George Cukor directed, and all the supporting players (Lew Ayres, Edward Everett Horton, Binnie Barnes, Jean Dixon, and Henry Daniell) distinguish themselves, with Ayres especially surprising as the stewing, stewed young brother.

Strand will open at 11:30 a. m. and the Majestic at 1 p. m.

FOR the week starting with July 4—Independence Day—the following films will be shown at the Majestic:

Monday and Tuesday—"Goldiggers in Paris," with Rudy Vallee, Rosemary Lane and the Schnickelfritz band.

Wednesday—"Blockade," with Madeline Carroll and Henry Fonda.

Thursday—"Mystery House," with Dick Purcell and Ann Sheridan.

Friday and Saturday—"3 Blind Mice," with Loretta Young and Joel McCrea.
